

Yellow Flag Iris Iris pseudacorus

Yellow Flag Iris is an easy to grow perennial bulb with showy yellow flowers that perform best in wet soils. It can grow in water up to 10 inches deep or the wet muds along a pond. The bright yellow iris-like flowers appear in April to June and the foliage is sword-shaped and up to 36 inches long. This plant spreads by rhizomes and seeds and can quickly overtake native plants in wet sites. Although it grows in wet sites, it can adapt to somewhat drier sites in moist to wet gardens.

Plant Care and Watering: Plant in full sun in boggy sites or pond edges. No serious problems with insects or diseases. Do not plant near natural waterways as it can naturalize and become quite weedy.

References:

www.plants.ces.ncsu.edu